CHANGE IN MONETARY POLICY MUST AWAIT WORLD ACTION

No Radical Departures From Existing Conditions in Empire Suggested by Conference Committee

Advocates Adequate Supply Of Cheap Money for Trade

By B. A. MCKELVIE
Colonist Staff Correspondent.

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—No radical departures from existing monetary conditions are embodied in the report of the Imperial Conference committee on currency and associated subjects, which will probably be released on Saturday, it was learned by The Colonist tonight. The very fact that no such steps were considered to be necessary at this time will, it is expected, have a marked effect in restoration of public confidence. Financial experts on the committee, it is said, feel that a declaration of policy favoring adequate supply of money at cheap rates for industry and trade will assist in giving a lons experts to go further along more definite lines. Another factor was the approaching world conference on monetary matters. Here, it is expected, more aggressive action will be advocated.

EIGHT MAIN POINTS

The report will contain eight main points, it is said. These may be summarized as follows

1. It is desirable to raise the general level of wholesale prices.
2. The best plan would be by raising gold prices. This may only be done through international

3. The monetary factor is not alone responsible for the fall in prices. Other factors, including political, have had an important effect. (Reparations is mentioned as one, but it is held to be without the scope of the conference to discuss.)

LOW INTEREST RATES

4. The monetary policy of the British Commonwealth of Nations should be on sound lines, aiming towards the raising of price levels by means of low interest rates and a plentiful supply of short-term money. It is pointed out that these loans should not take the form of financing public expenditures, but should be directed towards industry and the restoration of confidence in business.

Physician Is Seriously Ill

SASKATOON, Aug. 12.—Little change could be noted early today in the condition of Dr. A. S. Munro, prominent Vancouver physician and

Mrs. Munro is at present holidaying in Czechoslovakia and will land in New York tomorrow.

Pact Yet to Be Settled

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—With theenary session of the Empire delegates tentatively set for next Thursday, and with rapid progress being made in considering commodity exchanges, the feeling of general optimism holds.

Whether Canada will succeed in cutting out Russian timber from England, or at least obtain sufficient assurance of a market there, is not certain as it appeared yesterday. It is understood that a quota of approximately one-third will be set for Canada, leaving two-thirds of the market for Russia, the Baltic, Columbia timber markets in South

Man Who Photographed 10,000 Peaks, in City

M. Paul Helbronner, Noted French Scientist, Spent More Than Thirty Years Mapping the Alps—Explains Methods

There are thousands of camera enthusiasts in the world, but probably never before has the hobby represented such a labor of love on behalf of one's country and mankind in general as in the case of M. Paul Helbronner, of Paris, who has been here this week with the party of European astronomers and physicists touring the continent. Thanks to his enthusiasm and indefatigable activity over a period of twenty-one years, posterity will not only have the 162 magnificent photographic panoramas and innumerable other pictures which he has made of the Alps, but a series of books containing the results of detailed surveys of 10,000 peaks in this great chain of mountains. Several of the photographs are being sent to Dr. J. S. Plaskett here, who is also a keen amateur photographer.

M. Helbronner is extremely modest about this remarkable achievement. In fact, he will not be happy until he supplements it with four additional years' work. "It will," he told a Colonist representative yesterday, "take me four years to complete the map of the Alps into Corsica, the objective which I have set my heart on. I only hope to be able to live long enough to do this."

GOLD-SEEKERS DISILLUSIONED

Plane Brings Aid—Remains of Party Tramping Out to Burns Lake

EDMONTON, Aug. 11.—Four disillusioned gold-seekers, three from Camrose and the other from Smithers, B.C., are tramping the 400 miles of wilderness from Ingenika River, in far Northeastern British Columbia, to Burns Lake, after a siege of near-starvation which resulted in an emergency flight by an airplane, carrying food and supplies. James Parlee, son of H. H. Parlee, K.C., one of the original party, has arrived in Edmonton after an airplane and railway journey from McConnell Creek, a tributary of the Ingenika River.

Following a dispatch from Victoria, stating that an airplane transport had left on an emergency trip to McConnell Creek with food supplies, it was learned that some time ago an airplane had been dispatched to McConnell Creek by Mr. Parlee to aid a party of which his son, James, was a member.

CORNMEAL MASH
"I was with a party of six who had been working on McConnell Creek stakings," said James Parlee. "Twice during recent months we had run out of food, and this time we were down to our last meal. The last plane out of the district carried Douglas Laye, Government mineralogist, and we sent word for a plane to carry out a supply of food and take our baggage so we could walk out."

"My father sent up a plane and another plane, carrying food, was sent up to aid other gold-seekers at McConnell Creek."

TWO FLY OUT
"When a machine of the Canadian Airways arrived at McConnell Creek with food supplies, Joe Kerr, out with it to Burns Lake, and from there I came by train to Edmonton."

"The other four, Bert Roth, of Smithers, and Olie Steun, John Higgins and Hance Haverin, of Camrose, started to walk out on August 1. They are well supplied with food."

5. Efforts should be made to stabilize exchange between countries.
6. No machinery for stabilization of exchange is proposed, but co-operation to this end is advised as between Empire units.
7. International co-operation for stabilization of world exchange is advocated.

METALLIC BASE
The stability of international exchange may best be secured by the maintenance of a metallic base for currency. Some advocacy that gold should be the only base was heard in the committee discussions. The report does not express any opinion on this point in view of the approaching world conference.

"Taken on its face, the report does not suggest any decisive action, but the very conservative nature of its tone; the suggested co-operation; failure to suggest radical departure from monometallism and the stress placed on industrial short-term money, will, it is expected, contribute considerably to the objective of higher price levels."

SPENT HOLIDAY IN NATIVE HUT

edge of the out-of-the-way places of the earth. He was full of enthusiasm over the trip which he was already planning for next year, and appeared more interested in that than in talking of his experiences in Fiji. He said he was going to Africa next, as he wanted to see the Belgian Congo body.

His desire to see the world was the result of reading about its out-of-the-way places.

HOW IT STARTED
"It all started when dad and I were buying books, and I got a book about Robinson Crusoe and his island," he continued. "I read the story over and over and kept telling dad how I'd like to go there, and then one day he surprised me by bringing me home a ticket to South America on a boat that went right by Crusoe's island."

Although Hartley did not actually land on the island, he got several good views of it from shipboard, once on the way to South America and once on the return. Trinidad, Barbados, St. Croix, Martinique, British Guiana, places that used to be just names in his geography book, are now real places which he has described in his log book.

MET LINDBERGH
He made his 7,000-mile trip to the West Indies and South America in 1930. Last year he went alone to the mouth of the Mackenzie River. He traveled to McMuray, and returned by boat to Fort Fitzgerald, portaged to Fort Smith, and thence downriver to Fort Resolution, across Great Slave Lake to Hay River, across Miles Lake, and eventually reached Wrigley, Good Hope and Akavik, on the Arctic Ocean. At the latter place he had the thrill of his life when he met the old and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, pausing to refuel on their way to the Orient.

The National Geographic Society of the United States elected Hartley a member last year. He is the son of John de Gerald, vice-president of the People's National Bank & Trust Company, Chicago.

Formal Protest Is Not Expected

TOKYO, Aug. 11 (AP).—Japan probably will not send a formal protest of representations to Washington over Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson's New York speech of last Monday. It was said in official quarters today following reports of Ambassador Dehanchi's visit to Stimson in Washington yesterday. It was expected, however, that Baron Uchida, Foreign Minister, would take an early occasion to reply in general terms to Stimson's implications regarding Japanese aggression in Manchuria. The occasion probably will be the meeting of the Diet session on August 22.

LEANDERS TO ROW IN FINAL HEAT OF EIGHT-OAR EVENT

Leanders. Open water showed between two shells as they neared the grandstands, and the Canadians advanced to the finish line in easy, swinging fashion, actually increasing their lead over Germany.

BRITAIN WINS PLACE

In the other eight race today, Great Britain won a place in the final over New Zealand, defeating the Antipodeans by three-quarters of a length in 6:40. The race was hard-fought over the full route. Brazil's eight did not start, no explanation being made.

Joe Wright, Jr., failed for the second time when he was beaten by Bill Miller, national sculling champion of United States, and Guillermo Douglas, of Uruguay. The Toronto oarsman finished in third place, fully three lengths behind Douglas, who trailed the American to the finish by nearly three lengths.

Miller never was seriously threatened from first place, taking the lead shortly after the start and protecting it with ease. But Douglas and Wright provided a thrilling duel to carry out a large part of the race, when Joe cracked. He steered an erratic course as Douglas sped away to come in behind Miller.

Germany and the United States combined to beat the gallant four-oared crew from Halifax, eliminating the Bluebonnet Mimosas after a terrific struggle down the course that was decided in the final 100 metres. The three boats finished side by side, with Germany a quarter-length in front and the United States about half a length ahead of the Canadian shell.

THRILLING RACE

The race was one of the most thrilling of Olympic regattas to date. The German oarsmen pulled a slow stroke over the entire distance, but they got a better run on the boat than either the sprinting Americans or the smooth-stroking Mimosas. At 1,000 metres the Germans were three-quarters of a length ahead, with Canada and United States even.

But the Canadians, visibly tired after they had passed the 1,000 metre post, fought more on nerve than anything else. The Germans kept slightly ahead, with the United States a foot behind. As the boats shot past the grandstands, the men were three-quarters of a length ahead, with Canada and United States even.

Horse Show Programme Extended Fourth Night

E. M. Whyte, President of B.C. Agricultural Association, Announces Increase in Events Due to Record Entry List at Willows Fair

Interest in the horse show at the British Columbia Agricultural Association's annual fair at the Willows, August 22 to 27, is so widespread that it has been necessary to extend the programme of events to take in four nights instead of three, it was announced yesterday by E. M. Whyte, president of the association.

Mr. Whyte, who is a breeder of livestock himself, has taken a keen interest in the show and has done much to encourage the increased number of entries that are being sent to Victoria this year from Up-Island points, interior of British Columbia, Prairie provinces and the Pacific Coast states.

The show will be held on Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights this year and the programme will commence at 8 o'clock. The most outstanding feature of the show will be the six-horse team, in which there is a record entry.

The following is the programme of events:

Tuesday night—Four-horse team driving contest; novice saddle horse competition; middle weight hunter judging on conformation and performance in contest; hunting pairs and the touch-and-go sweepstakes, horses to be ridden over four jumps.

Thursday night—Six-horse team; children's riding competitions; performance jumps, 3 feet 6 inches; light weight hunters; two-horse teams and Victoria course, a series of eight jumps not exceeding 4 feet, 6 inches.

Friday night—The cattle parade; six-horse teams, mare or gelding up to 150 pounds judging; saddle horse, 15.2 hands and under; children's jumping, under sixteen years; hunt teams, and performance jumps of 4 feet, 6 inches.

Saturday night—Ponies over 13 and under 14.2 hands; saddle horses

Frank Caldwell, of St. Louis, to Address Meeting of Business Men Today

The Chamber of Commerce will today hold its quarterly meeting which is taking on more than ordinary interest in view of the fact that there is to be an address by Frank Caldwell, of St. Louis, Mo., who represents the National Retail Credit Association of the United States.

In view of the fact that the subject upon which Mr. Caldwell is to address the Chamber is one of outstanding importance at this time, the Retail Credit Board and the various service clubs of the city have been asked to co-operate in this luncheon meeting to be held at 12:15 o'clock in the auditorium of the Chamber. The subject will be "Present Retail Credit Problems and Latest Methods of Credit Control."

Mr. Caldwell has had a long and successful experience in the credit world. He is reputed to be an outstanding speaker, is recognized as a retail authority on credit granting, and the message which he will bring should be of exceptional worth and vital interest to all business and professional men of this community.

The National Retail Credit Association is really international in scope, in so far as it embraces the leading credit grantors of Canada, England, Australia, South Africa, United States, France, Holland and Hawaii.

Advantage will be taken of this occasion for a public presentation by Mayor Leeming of a medal awarded by the Royal Canadian Humane Association to William Francis, of the cashless Restorers, for heroic action in saving the life of a young boy from drowning.

Y. H. Ker, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will preside.

SHEEP BREEDERS Are Anxious to Improve Stock

THE British Columbia Purebred Sheep Breeders' Association will hold a meeting at the Willows during Fair week, August 22 to 27, to discuss ways and means of improvements in connection with raising sheep and breeds, it was announced yesterday by W. H. Meares, secretary of the British Columbia Agricultural Association.

Sheep breeders this year are sending many fine entries to the show and are interested in improving the blood strains, so that the stock will be of an even higher standard than in the past.

Harvard Clubs WILL MEET HERE

Gathering of University Men From B.C., Washington and Oregon Opens Today

A reunion of Harvard graduates will be held here over the week-end. Harvard Clubs of British Columbia will join with those of Washington and Oregon in a social gathering at the Empress Hotel. Those from the United States will arrive here this morning by the steamer Iroquois and proceed to the hotel.

Luncheon will be taken at the Empress by members present at 2:30 p.m. The proceedings will be presided over by Minor Davis. A banquet will be held at 7:30 o'clock at the Empress Hotel, Frederick Calkett presiding, toasts being proposed by W. J. Bingham, H. C. Clark and Hamilton Corbett.

Any persons on Vancouver Island who have attended Harvard, whether graduates or not, are invited to attend the functions.

SATURDAY PROGRAMME

Saturday afternoon will be spent playing golf. At 1:30 p.m. luncheon will be served at the Chateau at Deep Cove, with Robert Bronson presiding. A visit will be made to Butchart's Gardens during the return trip to the city. An informal banquet will be held at the Empress Hotel at 7 o'clock, with Rogers McVeigh in the chair. Trophies won at the golf competition will be presented and college football films will be shown.

The gathering here of the members of the Harvard Clubs of Washington, Oregon and British Columbia, who met in Victoria last year, is due to the pleasant time spent in the city on the occasion.

It is planned that before the charges are met, a full investigation of the list of names be carried out and that the institution be inspected.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

X-RAY FOR ACNE OR PIMPLES

I write frequently about acne, or pimples, because it means much to the individual—if he can rid himself of this distressing condition.

I have spoken of the good results obtained in many cases by cutting certain arteries of the face, and the diet, mostly starchy foods.

That the glands of the body have some relation to acne is generally admitted, as the first appearance of the pimples is usually when the boy or girl is emerging into manhood or womanhood. Thus in some cases gland substances seem to have been of help.

However, in all cases the skin itself, usually the face, must be treated. Thus the little pus-filled pimples are opened up and some drying lotion or salve is applied.

A new treatment has lately come into use that promises relief to many sufferers. This is by means of the X-ray. Dr. Llewellyn Williams Lord and Jarrod E. Kemp treated 247 cases of acne with the Roentgen or X-rays, 194, or 74.5 per cent, of whom were cured or greatly improved by one course of treatment. Relapses occurred in twenty-five per cent of the cases.

In spite of the fact, therefore, that X-rays do not promise 100 per cent cures, they believe that this form of treatment is the best single agent available for acne, and when used with other methods mentioned above, it promises the patient more than any other known treatment.

The treatment consists of weekly exposures to the X-ray. This was given to each cheek if the acne was worse along the sides of the face. If, however, the forehead, nose and chin were worse, the exposures were given to the full face. When the whole face was affected the treatments were alternated—one week on alternate weeks the treatment was given to the whole face. Treatment was stopped immediately on the clearing up of the condition.

The number of exposures varied from five to eighteen treatments. The dosage given each week consisted of one-quarter skin unit of unfocused X-ray.

In regard to the cases where the acne came back after the treatment, it was found that the older the patient the less likely was this to occur. Either the younger patients treated more carelessly, or the gland condition causing the acne was more active.

However, if the X-ray is going to bring about a complete cure in even the above percentage of cases, it will be a welcome addition to the present treatment of this embarrassing ailment.

FOREMEN GIVEN MORE AUTHORITY

Sanich Work Gangs Must Fall in Line With Requirements or Be Suspended

The foremen in charge of the relief work gangs in Sanich will have more authority vested in them in order to exercise proper discipline and thus secure better service. The foremen will have the power to suspend a man who is not applying himself or who declines to carry out the work assigned him. He may be suspended for a week for the first offence and for two weeks for a second offence.

The matter came before the Municipal Council last evening on the suggestion of H. H. Allan, engineer. The latter said there were not a great many offenders, but that the authority should be vested in the foremen.

Reeve Crouch stated that while the great majority of the men were all right, there were a few who were taking advantage of the position.

Councillor Dennis Hoare favored giving the authority to the foremen and said he would be right behind them.

DRIVER IS INJURED

Minor injuries were suffered by Alex. H. Sutherland, of 2800 Dewdney Avenue, when the car he was driving yesterday morning came into collision with another car by Pont On, Chinese, of 2516 Port Street, at the intersection of Quadra Street and Pinnapin Road. Sutherland was taken to the Jubilee Hospital, where his wounds received medical treatment. His condition is reported not serious.

76—AND SKIN LIKE A GIRL

You can "doctor" your skin to your heart's content, but only the blood can feed it and keep it clear and unblemished. My skin today is like that of a young girl. Why? Because I keep my blood normally alkaline by eating nonacid foods—fruit, steamed vegetables, milk, egg yolks, almonds, salads and Roman Meal, the only alkali-forming grain food known.

Twenty-five years ago I had a putty-like, blemished skin. By fresh air, exercise, alkalizing diet, I have a skin many a debutante would envy—an evidence of absolutely perfect health.

Right eating is most important in Summer if you would withstand the excessive heat and store up energy against the winter months.

So stick to your alkalizing Roman Meal this Summer. If you prefer cold foods, see the Roman Meal package for ways of preparing delicious, cold Roman Meal dishes—or eat it uncooked.

INTER-EMPIRE TRADE

Among the countries of the Empire, British India is the United Kingdom most profitable customer. Then, in following order, come Australia, Irish Free State, Canada, South Africa, New Zealand, Southern Rhodesia and Newfoundland. For the latest year for which full figures are available, British India imported from the United Kingdom goods valued at $82,101,000; Australia, $54,241,000; Irish Free State, $45,467,000; Canada, $30,752,000; South Africa, $29,735,000; New Zealand, $20,223,000; Southern Rhodesia, $3,945,000; and Newfoundland, $1,133,000.

In comparing imports and exports, as between the parts of the Empire noted and the United Kingdom, the following percentages show the visible balances favorable to the Dominions (plus) or unfavorable to the Dominions (minus): Canada, plus 7.4 per cent; Australia, plus 37.5; New Zealand, plus 1.2; Union of South Africa, plus 24.4; Irish Free State, minus 1.2; Newfoundland, plus 1.3; British India, minus 9.6; Southern Rhodesia, minus 0.3. From that part of the Empire comprised in the foreign dominion, the United Kingdom imports, inclusive of bullion coin, $15,800,000 worth of commodities annually, and exports to that portion, inclusive of bullion and coin, commodities worth $220,100,000. Thus Britain's unfavorable trade balance with the rest of the Empire, apart from colonial possessions, is nearly $100,000,000 annually.

The proportion of exports to the United Kingdom from the rest of the Empire which enjoy free entry in some cases exceeds 90 per cent, and only falls appreciably below that figure in the case of British India. Under British tariff policy, instituted last March, only 30 per cent of her imports from foreign countries are admitted free of duty. On the other hand, in the case of exports from the United Kingdom to the four principal Dominions there is, today practically no free entry. In other words a duty or tax of some kind is charged on almost all goods exported from Britain to those Dominions. At present the preference accorded by the United Kingdom is in the form of a total remission of duties payable by foreign goods.

The foregoing constitute some of the figures presented by the British delegation to the Imperial Conference. These figures have been accompanied by some comment and deductions. It is pointed out that the United Kingdom has been doing her share in encouraging the trade and industries of the Dominions by taking a very large proportion of Dominion exports. Moreover, she has consistently made it easy for such exports to enter the ports of the United Kingdom, "on the best possible terms and with the least possible interference by governmental policy or by Customs administration. Since the war about one half of $3,800,000,000 of British capital invested overseas has been placed in countries of the Empire. In commenting on the attitude of the British delegation to Ottawa the statement, from which we have quoted the foregoing figures, says:

"The United Kingdom delegation has no intention of building up a balance sheet or of weighing meticulously benefits given or received, but it is anxious that the outside world shall realize—that what the outside world shall realize—that the spirit animating the United Kingdom has been constantly and consistently displayed in our actual dealings with the Dominions, and that any suggestion that the United Kingdom has been backward in developing or assisting Dominion trade, or that concessions on the side of the Dominions have not been fully reciprocated both in letter and spirit, would be wholly unwarranted by fact. The United Kingdom delegation will approach the examination of statements as they are received with an unprejudiced mind, indeed with an earnest desire to give effect to the wishes of the Dominions; and it is convinced that in their turn its own views will be given equally favorable consideration."

WOMEN IN BUSINESS

At a recent discussion held in the London School of Economics on the subject of "Women in Business," there was a unanimous wish expressed that more opportunity should be given for more equal competition with men in all lines of human endeavor. The fact that the extent to which women have already entered trades and professions has been contributory to the growth of unemployment was not mentioned. The place of women as home-builders held no part in the discussion. The further stage in the fight for emancipation is being directed towards the end of finding more and more employment for women in places other than their homes.

The Duchess of Atholl wants more women in business posts where they can secure a practical grasp of economics. Another speaker believed the present time offers great opportunities for women because, "old ideas are going by the board." The average woman, in her estimation, brings to business a fresh outlook, a practical sense, a keen appreciation of the humor of life, endurance and a mind untrammelled by business habits. It is maintained that efforts will not cease until every profession and trade society, association or institute admit woman to membership on the same terms as men.

One admission made was that women in business had a great deal to learn from men in the matter of physical fitness. Women, if they are to keep the places they have won, must go in for better and more regular meals, more physical culture and more outdoor recreation to enable them to "stay the course." The fact is that women at present are undergoing a period of test and trial in industry, in a race where it is a question of the survival of the fittest. They have been justified in a variety of ways as forming a part of the industrial machine. The gate of opportunity is open, and it will become open more widely. Hand in hand with this broadening of opportunity has gone the propaganda in favor of birth control and the decline of home life. In commenting on the change taking place in social habits, Sir Josiah Stamp says:

"In all Europe there is only one leading statesman, Mussolini, who appears to have any clear ideas on the subject; he may be right or he may be wrong, but he does know where he stands, and he publicly proclaims his belief that a woman's finest jewels are her children. Here (in Britain) no authoritative voice is heard to remind women that in resigning motherhood they deprive themselves at once of health, of mental poise, and of happiness, even while they deprive their country of a future. Birth-control is obviously destructive of family life; yet the family is the true unit of the nation, and without its anchorage bodies and souls alike perish. The life of both men and women is a sorry thing without children, and in particular it is pitiful for women to become aged without the natural and lovely consolation of having borne children."

RUSSIA'S FOOD SUPPLIES

In Russia the Government has opened what are called shops for the sale of industrial products of prime necessity. These, so far, have been very poorly stocked, and the Soviet press has been criticising industry, pointing out that the new traffic is being injured at the outset. Then, the prices charged at the Government shops appear to be exorbitant. In Leningrad milk is 3s 1d a quart; eggs, 1s each; fresh fish, 3s 7d to 10s 9d a pound; carrots, 1s each; cabbage, 7d a pound, and potatoes, 7d a pound. Butter is quoted from 13s 6d to 18s a pound. To meet these prices the average earnings of industrial workers are now between 6s and 7s a day.

This means that the ordinary workman cannot buy enough to live on with the prices that prevail, so that instead of being able to get all he wants from the Government shops he must depend on food rations supplied at lower prices by the co-operatives. With the opening of the Government shops the list of rationed foodstuffs is being reduced. The problem before Russia at present is to bring down market prices or else increase wages.

The effort is being made to induce the peasants to flood the market with produce. Instead, however, of this happening, a dispatch printed yesterday shows that the July collections of grain by the Government are only 45.5 per cent of what had been planned. The grain harvest this year is comparatively poor, drought having caused heavy losses in the Ukraine and the North Caucasus. Russia is now faced with an internal food problem, for there is an actual scarcity in many districts. Russia can only be exporter of wheat this year at the risk of creating famine conditions at home.

Mr. George Bernard Shaw's mind is nothing if not plastic. He can execute mental somersaults as easily as anyone. Last year he visited Russia and returned to England loud in his praise of administrative methods there. Now he has warned a meeting of Oxford undergraduates that "revolt means the end of liberty. No single breath of tyranny is missing in Russia. It is carried into effect on a gigantic scale."

Mr. Emil Ludwig says that in Russia "science has become the actual goddess of an irreligious people." The history of men and events is that when a country is going to its destruction it has lost its hold on spiritual values.

A CRUSADING PATRIOT

The news that Mr. Frank J. D. Barnum has purchased another 248 acres of giant Douglas fir trees on Vancouver Island and added them to his already large holdings of big trees for the benefit of present and future generations is tidings of importance to Canadians. This enthusiastic and indomitable crusader for the conservation of the forest wealth of the Dominion is a practical patriot. For years he has been devoting his time, energy, ability and wealth to arousing the citizens of our country to the value of their great wooded resources and the danger of destroying this inestimable heritage. For a time it seemed that his exhortation was that of a voice in the wilderness, unheard and unheeded. But he carried on, and today public and press are realizing the outstanding national service he continues to perform. In the honor list of those who have given freely and ardently to their country's wealth the name of Frank J. D. Barnum must stand high.—Toronto Globe.

FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL

Lull in Wind Gives Rangers Chance to Save Kootenay Property

NELSON, Aug. 11.—Aided by a day of practically perfect calm and also intense humidity suggesting rain soon, the forest branch made headway today with forest fires it is fighting in this district—that on the Kootenay River opposite Thrums, that on Sheep Creek near the mother lode ore mill of the Reno gold mines.

Fire fighters took advantage of the calm to steal a big march on the fire on the summit of Grohman, and a new fireguard which, angling down to the river from the ridge of Ten-Mile Creek, will save a couple of square miles of Crown timber that was in danger.

MILL OUT OF DANGER Combined efforts of the Reno crew and the forest branch crew on the Sheep Creek fire, with two forest pumps being used, have barred the fire successfully, both from the Motherlode mill of the Reno Gold Mines and from the Crown timber threatened, the fire line which could have been compressed to small dimensions.

On the other hand, this fire has crossed the divide of Dominion Mountain, and invaded the Nugget basin, and is working in the direction of the Reno mine. As there is practically no timber in the vicinity of the Reno, the buildings of the mine, which are located on a flat, will be in no danger.

SMOKE OVER NELSON

Dense smoke that has hung over Nelson the past two days is from the big Thrums fire with some from the fire on the summit of Grohman. The heavy atmosphere is driving down the smoke. There was no fire from East Kootenay this morning, and it was assumed that the day has been quiet there with the fire crew registering progress.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

REDEEMING A BAD OPENING

It is almost impossible for the average player to realize when it is inadvisable to take whatever immediate tricks are held. The most serious error is perpetrated in the defence are those at the outset of the hand.

The other day I watched a player, through failure to appreciate this principle, make an opening lead which threatened to allow the adversaries to make their contract. Fortunately, this player's partner was a brilliant analyst, and was able to save the day through an exceptionally fine, though unusual, method of defence.

South—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

North—Declarer.

1. The hand holds no red values in honor tricks, but is strong distributionally. South desires to drive his opponents higher.

2. Not a good double since North is not prepared to double diamonds, which East and West will almost certainly run to.

3. With a sure diamond trick, two probable heart tricks, spades well in control, and a partner who is doubling clubs, South is convinced that the contract cannot be made.

North pondered a long time over his opening, and finally chose the worst possible one—namely, the club ace. He reasoned that if his partner could read hearts and double diamonds, he must certainly be short in clubs, and consequently could ruff the second lead. He neglected to consider, however, that even if this were true there would be no appreciable gain, since his partner would be shortened in trumps and declarer's clubs would be almost certainly established.

South felt the same way about the matter, but had nothing to do but dutifully trump the second round of clubs. He then laid down the heart king, and stopped to consider the situation. He knew that

LIFE-SAVING

Sir,—Whilst the tragedy at Shalman Lake, in which two young people were drowned, is fresh in our minds, I would like to make a plea to the young swimmers of Victoria who have not taken the life-saving tests to make arrangements to do so as early as possible. These classes are conducted at the Crystal Garden by competent life-saving instructors, and many fatalities of this nature would not be possible if the swimmers knew the rudiments of life-saving.

Life-saving is a most interesting study, and really should be part and parcel of the education of all young people. It is being actively taken up by a number of private schools, and I would like to see the public schools become enthusiastic on the subject also. Anyone wishing to join a life-saving class can receive definite information as to when the classes will commence from Mr. Fred Ellison, of the Crystal Garden, whom most of the youngsters in Victoria know on account of his campaign to teach the young element of Victoria the rudiments of swimming.

Life parents of young swimmers will try to impress upon their children the great advantages to be derived from knowing how to save life in the water. We have had many drowning accidents in Victoria which could have been avoided had the victims had the knowledge of life-saving which could have been imparted to them by officials and instructors of the Royal Life-Saving Society.

AN APPRECIATION

Sir,—I have been requested by Krishnamurti to convey to you his thanks for the very fair and accurate report of his lecture. When he read the report on the following morning he said with a smile that the account was so nearly correct that it was almost unbelievable. He stated that it was one of the best reports he had ever received and as he lectures all over the world and has had a great deal of publicity of various sorts his opinion should be worth something.

CATHEDRAL GROVE

Sir,—I am a visitor to your lovely island and, being one, am specially interested in objects of natural beauty here.

I was taken a few days ago to see the group of splendid trees known as "Cathedral Grove" and the few miles of virgin forest passing it from Cameron Lake. Such trees are indeed a great possession, and in future I doubt not more visitors than at present will come from all over the world to admire the beauty of this forest bordering the highway.

What was my surprise was to see some of these magnificent trees being cut down to straighten out the road. I was told, "To a visitor this seems somewhat comparable to cutting off the porch of Chartres Cathedral to give more room for motor buses to pass it. This would not be done because the world recognizes that the porch of Chartres is an object of world-wide value; but so are the noble trees so few of which are now left in gettable places on the island."

Can the traffic between Qualicum Beach and Alberni be so great as to require the sacrifice of one of the greatest attractions of the island? Is it necessary that motor-ists should be provided for even more simply than at present at the expense of so much natural beauty? Had the authorities on the island in past years realized the value as an attraction to visitors of stands of noble trees by the highway around the island, it might have rivalled at the present day the Redwood Highway of California. Where now is the money raised by the sale of these giant conifers? The trees are gone and so is the money.

A far-seeing community would rise as one man to preserve those that remain, realizing that in them the island has a potential source of wealth through attracting visitors who come to admire what are among the most ancient as well as the most beautiful of living things.

BOGUS MONEY IS IN CIRCULATION

Acting Chief of Police Jack McLean yesterday warned the public against spurious 50-cent pieces that are being circulated in the city.

Three half-dollar coins of a bogus character and a spurious nickel were discovered by the police yesterday. They are believed to have come here from Vancouver, where large quantities of bogus money are reported in circulation.

All merchants are warned to be on alert in accepting 50-cent pieces that have not the true ring in them when dropped.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michell

BENEATH THE STARS

White lights and laughter, heart and song,
 The rhythm of the dance,
 The movement of the restless throng
 And then, the sky's expanse!

To leave it all—the violin,
 The dazle and the glare—
 Before the moon's first glow begins,
 To seek the sweet, fresh air!

Down garden ways so still, so cool,
 To wander through the night,
 To watch the lilies in the pool,
 And fireflies' fitful light!

To leave the music and the mirth
 Which vague unrest still mars,
 To tread the green and kindly earth
 Beneath the tranquil stars!

They drop away, the care and grief,
 Forgotten, drifted far,
 While, beautiful beyond belief,
 Life beckons like a star!

TODAY'S POINTER

Defence at bridge, by its very nature, is extremely difficult, as the declarer, who has no partner to deceive, has a much better opportunity to play his combined holdings effectively. The outstanding advantage held by the defence is the opening lead, which gives the defending players an opportunity to utilize the time factor. An unwise choice of an opening lead often permits the making of an otherwise unattainable contract.

Sinclair Enjoys Fish Dinner With Schoolgirl Party

Has Interesting Voyage on Japanese Coaster—Sees His Fish Caught by Trained Cormorants and Helps With the Cooking

By GORDON SINCLAIR

SHIMIZU, Japan.—Japan's education department sent the girl students of a Kobe college on a deep sea geography lesson today and found me as an innocent, but delighted gate-crasher on a coastal freighter.

GORDON SINCLAIR

The usual way to duck from the noise and uproar of Kobe to the quiet shrines and gardens of Yokohama is by night express. Weekly, however, a coastal ship noses her way around from port to port, and you get a far better glimpse of back-alley Japan by going that way.

I got a ticket and sauntered down to the wharf. Bands played there, bugles screamed in wild defiance and the whole waterfront was awash with troops loading for the Manchurian war zone. It was strange to see tanned young warriors with shaved heads bidding goodbye to wives and babies. The wives, done up in gay kimono and wooden sandals, stood dry-eyed on the sidelines, but at the actual moment of parting there were neither tears, kisses or hand-shakes. Sometimes a young father would give way enough to pat his son on the head, but that was all. The son was usually strapped to his mother's back taking a g-p-eyed interest in the noise and bustle about him. The Japs never permit themselves to show sadness, even in the presence of death.

Troops, armored cars, tanks and horses were loaded aboard a big transport, while I shouldered my way through an even bigger crowd around the coastal boat. I figured I must surely be on the wrong track and studied the ticket. The name of the ship was right enough, but I couldn't figure out the celebrations. Gongs were booming, streamers stretching out like vast devilfish from the black ship, and it was whoopee in a big league way. The gangplank was steep and crowded. Hundreds of young girls, demure and petite, were slipping and sliding aloft on wooden shoes. They carried silken bundles over their backs, cameras, parasols, portable gramophones, books, glasses and occasional pets.

At the top were the big hampers of straw shoes. The crew made the girls take off the wooden "getas" because they chewed up the rubber flooring, and it looked funny to see the whole deck lined with shoes all ticketed and labeled.

STUDENTS ON TOUR

The girls turned out to be students en route to Tokyo. Most of them were from the best families of Kobe, Kyoto and Osaka. There were only four other passengers, a Chinese girl, two Englishmen and myself.

Two destroyers picked up the troopship, and we followed them out on high tide. We hugged the coastline closely and, as dark came on, we were weaving by hundreds of fish, bobbing lights. The ship stopped and we were taken out to see the cormorant fishers.

There were two or three men and from thirty to 100 big spiky-legged birds in each cove. The men had powerful gas lights in their boats, which bounced around like a mad fantasy of fireflies. As the fish came up, the eagle-eyed birds swooped down and gobbled them up one after another, with the pouncing speed of lightning. Then they'd obediently duck back, or be pulled back to the boat, where the men would grab them by the throat and squeeze the fish right out of them again.

The birds were catching fish so fast my head swam. Each of the thirty to 100 birds would go swishing into the Pacific every two minutes or so, and come triumphantly aloft with one to six fish inside him. They never seemed to get sore when the men squeezed their dinner right out of the whole act like a bird dog does, and the catch was amazing. The fish were still alive and jerking when they got squeezed out of the birds' insides.

SCRIBE TURNS COOK

We got two big baskets of fish and brought them aboard. The regular cooks were off duty, but we scurried down into the galley and had a fish picnic in a big way. Some of the girls were squeamish about cleaning the fish, so I did the messy part. There was a committee of chaperones with the students, and they looked on me with growing distrust, but I was having the time of my life as a deep sea cook, and bottle washer. The Englishmen stood off after a bit and ate with their fingers like the rest of us.

For two days and nights we ran from one port to another, and every time we stopped, the chief cop, all came out solemnly to inspect the four foreigners' passports. The boys hadn't had a chance to function on foreigners for so long they went through all the formalities laid out in the book of rules. I got to know all the questions by heart. "What country are you of?" "Canada."

"Where do you come from? Where do you go? Why? Who do you meet there? How long do you stay? Are you a soldier? Have you been one?" The same routine about once every four hours, and if you give the wrong answer they'll know.

We sailed up past Mount Fuji just at sunset, and all the girls came on deck to sing and bow to the sacred mountain. The view was too perfect to seem real. Certainly no other mountain has the finished outline of Fujiyama, and with all the girls in the most gorgeous colors of the rainbow, it went into my memory as the second thing I'll never forget on this jaunt. The other was that first breath-taking glimpse of the Taj Mahal.

EEZERS HARD PUT

After the girls had acquired merit by honoring their ancestors before the sacred mountain, they sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and we went on another cormorant hunt. The birds up here were small and fiercer and faster. They pulled up fish so fast the squeezers-out couldn't keep up with them, and it was still light. After dark, they fish were silvery beauties about eight inches long.

At one port we spent two hours loading crockery and porcelain for Toronto. It was part of the educational idea to get a line on all the exports, and where they were for. I was immediately called on for a speech about Toronto, and began to make noises like an alderman greeting the visiting firemen. The girls had all studied English six years, which is longer than I did, but I'm afraid my oratory was getting the Japanese raspberry. When it was all over, they solemnly presented me with a record of the Japanese national anthem, sung by a quartette with asthma. All I need now is a gramophone to play it on.

DANCER SENT TO BED

The night before pulling into Yokohama the girls staged a dance. We weren't invited, but the music was tantalizing, so we went down to try and figure how girls can dance in those shredded wheat shoes. The place was festooned with gaudy lights, and the girls had piled their raven-black hair up in the old-fashioned way, so that the room looked like a staged extravaganza. The brilliant obis which circled their trim waistlines were prettier than ever, and there was a full moon bathing the islands in silver.

ROTARIANS WILL SPEND DAY HERE

Victoria Club to Be Host to Visitors Next Thursday—Upwards of 500 Are Expected

Upwards of 500 Rotarians from neighboring United States clubs will invade Victoria next Thursday to be the guests of the Victoria Club at a luncheon at the Empress Hotel. The visit of the Rotarians from the South was arranged by the international service committee of the Victoria Club and some twenty clubs are sending representatives. Up to noon yesterday, a total of 423 registrations had been received by the local organization.

The visitors will arrive in the city in the morning and will be taken care of by local club members and their wives, who will look after their entertainment. The programme will be in the hands of the visitors and the luncheon will commence promptly at 1 o'clock, instead of at 12:15 o'clock, as customary. Arrangements have been made to give the visiting Rotarians a motor drive to points of interest in and around the city.

SEARCH FOR MISSING GIRL AT COWICHAN

DUNCAN, Aug. 11.—Search is being made by local police for Evelyn Sandler, a seventeen-year-old girl, employed by G. G. Share, of Cowichan Bay, following her disappearance on August 9. She was last seen at 1:30 p.m. of that day. Grave fears are felt for her safety as she disappeared in her working clothes and took nothing with her, although she had a considerable sum of money in her possession. Miss Sandler is about five feet seven inches tall, with brown eyes and brown bobbed hair, and was wearing a blue house dress and a blue and white check apron.

GIVES ADDRESS ON UNIVERSITY

Professor H. T. J. Coleman Is Guest Speaker at Rotary Luncheon Meeting

Professor H. T. J. Coleman, of the University of British Columbia, was the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Victoria Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday. The subject of his address was "The Idea of a University," and in the short time allotted to him he endeavored to outline the functions of a university and its relation to the whole community in life.

The university, he said, was a whole community seeking to understand the life in which it was set. It was the growing point of democracy and the fundamental of elementary and high schools. The university occupies a unique place in assisting mutual understanding. Its function is mediating in these times of diverse interests.

RESPECTS TRADITION

Professor Coleman declared that the world of today was vastly different from the world of fifty years ago. The bounds of knowledge are being widened day by day. "We are facing grave issues having to do with the welfare of mankind, and in this the university is the mediating factor between the past and the present. There is in Victoria a wholesome respect for tradition, and sometimes it is brought against us in the form of reproach. The world seeks something new and apart from tradition, but this search for novelty is a futile and shallow philosophy. The university is the custodian of the heritage of the past, and life is rooted in the past," said the speaker.

LINK WITH THE PAST

Mr. Coleman referred to the universities of centuries ago and mentioned the difference of opinion that had existed in the University of British Columbia recently. He said that there had been universities that were ruled solely by the students, who hired, and fired, the teachers by the very effective way of refusing to attend classes. No matter what system is binding on the conduct of a university, the whole basis of a university is a group of willing students and a group of willing teachers forming a whole community. He emphasized the importance of the link with the past. "The past is not dead. It is throbbing with life, and the idea of a university is to act as a media-

PUBLICITY IS GIVEN TO CITY AND ISLAND

The latest copy of The Canadian Gazette, published in London, England, gives considerable space to the visit of the agriculturists who came to British Columbia under the direction of W. A. McAdam. The trip is written up by the conductor in a two-page article in the magazine, while in addition to this, two pages of reproduction of scenes on the tour appear in the centre of The Gazette.

In this latter collection there are reproductions of twenty-four photographs. Of these the largest, embracing four of them, are scenes in Victoria, while an additional two are taken from other places on Vancouver Island.

Beautiful Blooms Seen At Gladiolus Display

Flowers Grown by C. S. McTavish Exhibited at Cridge Memorial Hall—Musical Programme and Tea Enjoyed by Large Crowd

Seldom has such a magnificent exhibition of gladioli been on view in Victoria as that displayed yesterday at the Cridge Memorial Hall by Mr. C. S. McTavish, of Sidney, whose gardens are located on Breeds' Crossroad. The display itself was most artistically arranged, the shelves on which the specimen vases and display baskets were placed being covered with black cloth, which was a great advantage in showing off the exquisite colors of the blooms.

There were more than two hundred varieties of gladioli, ranging in color from pure white, through cream and delicate apricot to a rich and lustrous purple, which seemed almost black by artificial light. Some of the blooms measured as much as seven inches across, "Pitner's Triumph," a bright salmon orange gladiolus, being the largest in the show.

MANY VARIETIES
Besides the very large varieties there were the smaller yet most decorative "primula" variety, which is particularly well suited for table decoration. The "amokies," which are blooms of dusky hue, obtained by a mixture of one color with another, such as apricot and some of the blues, resulting in a mottled appearance, were outstanding and attracted a good deal of attention. "Rosemary," which is described as a stippled lavender rose, suggests raspberries and cream; "Schubert," a 1931 production, is a beautiful creamy apricot with scarlet blotches; and "Blue Ribbon" were among the finest specimens of this more unusual color.

Among the whites, "Albatross" was a magnificent specimen. "Paisa Magana," an exquisite coral pink with very large flowers, and "Wolfgang von Gothe," a deep salmon pink, were triumphs of the grower's art, and the deep mahogany red of "Moorish King" was in striking contrast to the feathery charm of "The Orchid," which is truly named.

PROCEEDS FOR CHURCH
The proceeds of the exhibition and tea will be devoted to funds of the Church of Our Lord, Free Church of England, and the committee in charge was most grateful to Mr. McTavish for his generosity in arranging and donating all the flowers, which were sold at the close of the evening. Assisting him in arranging the exhibition were Mrs. Hugh MacCallum, Miss Helmerken, Mrs. Frank Shandley, Mrs. Alan Watson (Vancouver) and Mrs. E. Heddie.

Tea was under the convership of Mrs. Peter Shandley, who was assisted by Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Tobin, Mrs. Lupton and Miss A. Murray, while the following helped serve the guests, Misses K. Tobin, Monahan, Irwin, Creech, McKinnon, Hawthorn, Lawrence, Heddie and Davis.

OPENED EXHIBITION
The affair was opened by Mr. E. White, president of the Agricultural Association, who paid an eloquent tribute to Mr. McTavish and congratulated him upon the beauty of his collection. He drew the attention of his listeners to the strides which have been made in the development of the gladiolus and what great heights of perfection it has reached.

Mrs. Merrick charmed the visitors with her delightful solos, Mrs. Goodwin playing her accompaniments in a most sympathetic manner.

Little Princess Thinks Dog Might Revert Question

A man leading an old dog walked along the path where Princess Elizabeth was taking to a grown-up acquaintance. Ladies' Choir to Hold Garden Party

The Victoria Ladies' Choir is sponsoring a garden party to be held on Wednesday, August 17, in the beautiful gardens of "Windyhaugh," generously lent for the occasion by Mrs. Hebbden Gillespie. The affair is being carefully organized, and among the diversions will be afternoon tea, in charge of Mrs. H. C. Fraser and Miss Marjorie Schroeder; recitation, Miss A. B. Cooke; crystal gazing; dancing by pupils of Miss Florence Clough; solo dances by Miss Chislett; orchestral numbers, directed by Oliver Stout; candy and ice cream, in charge of Mrs. Llewellyn Jones and Miss Clarenda Jeeves; and a stall of home-cooking, in charge of Mrs. W. Shepherd and Mrs. Shingles.

Guests will be welcomed by the president of the choir, Mrs. H. A. Beckwith; and the vice-president, Mrs. F. J. Mitchell, has been placed in charge of the programme. A double quartette, composed of members of the choir, will sing several numbers conducted by Mrs. Dillworth and W. H. Muncy, alternately Mrs. B. Denison will be at the receipt of customs.

GARDEN PARTY

The garden party, to be held tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Crowe, 2711 Saanich Road, under the auspices of the Douglas Street Baptist Church Choir, will commence at 2 o'clock, and will be opened by Mrs. W. F. Freeman.

John Wiclif, a noted English reformer, was "often styled the Morning Star of the Reformation."

BURNABY ASKS FEDERAL HELP

Unemployment Relief Affairs of Municipality Are Under Review

City officials of Burnaby interviewed the Government yesterday in support of their request that the Provincial and Federal Governments take over all the cost of unemployment relief in that area. The delegation, headed by Reeve W. A. Pritchard, included Councillors Lambert and R. Bolton. Reeve Pritchard announced that Burnaby would cease all relief payments as at August 15.

Burnaby officials were closeted with Hon. J. W. Jones, to whom they outlined the situation, and preferred their requests. Later Cabinet consideration was given to the matter. The Government, it was intimated, would report, the facts to the Federal authorities and consult with Ottawa before taking action.

Relief allocations in Burnaby under the Federal Relief Act, 1930 were some $238,000 up to April of 1931. Under the Federal Relief Act, 1931, $380,000 had been allocated to the corporation, out of total requests for $700,000.

What Today Means

"LEO"

If August 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 8:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 9 a.m. to 10:15 a.m., and from 2 p.m. to 3:25 p.m.

A lazy atmosphere will "get into your bones" on August 12 during the first part of the day, and the morning hours of the day, and the go-ahead spirit will take hold of you, however, as the astrological influences change, and night will be turned into day in your effort to use up your then surplus energy. A poor time for concentrated effort.

The child born on this August 12 should be a picture of fresh new life and happiness, for the stars indicate a splendid vitality and a cheerful disposition as its birthright. It will not be afraid to go "all out" for the things which it wants, and will work not white, for them. It will be lively spirited and quick witted.

You try, if born on August 12, to progress with the times, and to keep in touch with the things which every intelligent, wide-awake person should know. You are not a style chaser unless a style suits you, and individual taste, but you like to be "in the know" of things. You are not afraid, however, to be old-fashioned, if it pleases your mode or increases your comfort. You are wise and discriminating.

You never allow personal dignity, or egotism, or authority to insulate you from the common weal. If you be a big business man, you are not a hermit of the board room, nor glued to a revolving chair and mahogany desk. You keep in touch personally with all departments and with the wishes of the public. If you be the lady of the house—in cottage or mansion—you are able in control of the home economic situation, and are an efficient manager.

In any capacity in which you serve, you are a hundred per cent loyal. You know your own limitations, and are very chary about biting off more than you can chew or of making promises which must be broken. You are a helpful person in a community, and a delightful one within the home.

TAKE KLIM ALONG AND YOU'LL ALWAYS HAVE FRESH MILK!

NO matter how far from the beaten track your journey takes you—how far into the bush—along untrodden trails—you can always have a supply of pure, fresh milk, if you include Klim in your dunnage.

For Klim is milk—milk in convenient powder form, from which only the water has been removed. The replacing of that water gives you pure, fresh, full cream milk again whenever you require it. Klim is compact and easily carried—a 5-lb. tin makes 16 quarts of rich milk. Klim does not sour in the dry form, even after the tin is opened.

Princess Visits Mine Area

PRINCESS Galitzin, a Russian noblewoman of Edson, Alta., shown here, recently returned from a trip into the gold and radium producing district around Great Bear Lake in Northwest Territories. She is said to be the only woman ever to have entered the area. But she did not stay long—only about two hours. She wasn't a bit scared, she said, though she was the only woman among nearly a hundred and fifty men. There was no accommodation for her when she arrived, so she looked the place over and left. At the time there wasn't even a store in the little settlement of Great Bear. The men were living in little frame shacks which they had built themselves, but they were very make-shift, since timber for structural purposes is scarce in the district.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE
The young bride was asked what she thought of married life. "Oh, there's not much difference," she replied. "I used to wait up half the night for Henry to go, and now I wait up half the night for him to come home."

At the Theatres

EMPIRE The Swiss Alps, with a mountain holiday resort was, in effect, transported to British Columbia for the filming of dramatic sequences in "Reserved for Ladies," which is now at the Empire Theatre. Leslie Howard, Elizabeth Allan and Benita Hume are featured. Stages were built to duplicate Swiss models, and a notice of the mountain republic was employed to watch the word, so as to assure absolute accuracy. A new secret preparation was used for snow. The picture has an all-British cast, which includes Leslie Howard, George Grossmith and Benita Hume.

ROMANO A thrilling new drama theatre of the open range is now at the Romano Theatre with the showing of "The Pocatello Kid." This is the latest of the Tiffany Productions Westerns, featuring Ken Maynard and his wonderful horse, Tarzan. In

Plans for Parks Are Progressing

Four tennis courts, softball diamond and soccer field are included in the tentative plans for the Hollywood Park development drawn up by City Engineer F. M. Preston for consideration by the parks committee of the City Council, it was learned yesterday.

It also was further learned that the parks committee is considering the installation of a 160-yard race-track on the Macdonald Estate playgrounds.

HOLD DISTRICT MEETING HERE

Rotary Conference of 1932 to Be Held in British Columbia's Capital City

Victoria will be the headquarters of the 1932 district conference of the Rotary, it was announced at the luncheon meeting yesterday by President George McGregor. The Capital City was chosen as the meeting place of the presidents and secretaries held at Salem earlier in the week.

The last district conference held in Victoria was in 1926 when more than 700 delegates attended from the Pacific Coast States and a part of Idaho, exclusive of the delegates from British Columbia.

The conference next year is expected to register more than 1,000 delegates by reason of the fact that no district conference was held this year.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

Danny Gives Cresty a Hint
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Help each other. That's the way to get the most from every day.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Sometimes people help others without knowing it. They make a remark which gives another a hint where to look for or how to get something they are very anxious to get. But they help just as much as if they had intended to all the time.

Cresty the Flycatcher and Mrs. Cresty were unhappy. They had made their nest in a hole in a tree on the edge of the Old Orchard. That is to say, they had partly made their nest in that hole. But it wasn't finished and somehow they couldn't finish it. At least they thought they couldn't finish it. There was one certain material they must have in that nest. Without it the nest was and always would be incomplete in their eyes.

"We have always had it," declared Mrs. Cresty. "My parents always had it in their nests. So did your parents. So did our grand-children. They wouldn't have thought a nest without it was a nest without it. I feel the same way. We simply have got to keep looking until we find at least a piece. A small piece will do. The idea of a nest without it! It is unthinkable."

Cresty nodded. "I know just how you feel, my dear," said he. "It is just one of those things that because it always has been, it always must be, I suppose. I haven't a doubt that if those eggs were laid

"Hello, Cresty," said Danny, "have you happened to see my old friend, Mr. Toad?"

In that nest just as it is, they would hatch just as well, and the children would never know the difference. But I know how you would feel. You would feel as if you were living in an uncomfortable house. I have looked everywhere I can think of, just about to continue his way to the dear old Briar-patch when he spied Danny Meadow Mouse. Danny spied him at the same instant.

you go on down and look over the Green Meadows. Go clear to the dear old Briar-patch. Peter Rabbit may be able to tell you something that will help. I'll have another thorough hunt through the Old Orchard and along the edge of the Green Forest. We've got to get it. I simply will not lay an egg until we do."

Cresty nodded. "I'll do my best," said he.

He flew down across the Green Meadows to the fence along the edge of the cornfield. There was just a chance that he might find what he was looking for along that fence, for there were some old posts lying on the ground, new posts having been set in their places. The old ones were to be taken away later. Cresty flew to each of these posts and went down the length of each side of each, peering under them wherever he could. From post to post he flew and each was as disappointing as the last. He was just about to continue his way to the dear old Briar-patch when he spied Danny Meadow Mouse. Danny spied him at the same instant.

"Hello, Cresty!" cried Danny. "Have you happened to see my friend, Old Mr. Toad?"

"No," replied Cresty. "I don't believe he has returned from the Smiling Pool yet."

"He is on his way back, for I saw him a short time ago," replied Danny. "He was headed this way, so I thought you might have seen him. If you should happen to see him just tell him that Bluffer the Adder has gone off towards the Briar-patch. It probably will make him feel better."

"Where did you see Bluffer the Adder?" asked Cresty with sudden interest.

"Back there a short distance," replied Danny with a nod of his head. "There is an old board lying on the ground and Bluffer had just come out from under it. He had on a new suit and he looked fine. Where are you going in such a hurry?"

"I'm going to the Smiling Pool," hearing. Unknowingly Danny had given him just the hint he wanted.

"The next story: 'An Old Suit Makes Happiness.'"

SPECIAL EXCURSION

From Tacoma, the B.C. Coast Service excursion Ss. Princess Patricia tied up at the Belleville Street Docks of Canadian Pacific Steamships shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Patricia had several hundred passengers aboard, all of whom spent some busy hours sightseeing during the stay of the vessel here.

Two deep-sea carriers are due this morning. The Lochkatrine, of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, left San Francisco on Tuesday morning of this week and is expected about 7 o'clock, according to Adam P. Moffat, local representative of the line. The Lochkatrine will berth at Ogden Point Pier and will leave considerable cargo, including fruit for local consignees, before proceeding to Mainland ports to complete.

From the United Kingdom via Panama and California ports, the Furness motor liner Pacific Exporter is due sometime before noon, according to King Brothers, local agents of the Furness Line. The Pacific Exporter has approximately 100 tons of general cargo, and will load for the return voyage about fifty tons of loganberries for the United Kingdom.

Delayed a day, it will be Saturday morning before the freighter Ss. Golden Harvest ties up alongside Ogden Point Piers to load 500,000 feet of lumber for Australia.

COURT CASE REMARKABLE

Records in British Jurisdiction Broken in Attempt to Settle Dispute

A remarkable shipping lawsuit was settled recently by negotiations out of court, after twenty-four days had been given to its hearing by Mr. Justice Branson, in the King's Bench Division.

The case related to a claim by the Carlton Steamship Company, Ltd., and the Cambay Steamship Company, Ltd., against the London Assurance, in respect of a marine insurance policy on the steamer Nurturion.

The Nurturion had been docked on a wharf, and a Dutch firm had been lined up, halves erected, photographs taken, test pieces cut out of the hull, and so on. A reasonable estimate of the combined costs of the action is $40,000.

One of the most interesting features of the whole case, however, is the sequel: the subsequent history of the ship herself. Her two halves were towed from Tilbury to Rotterdam, where a Dutch firm has obtained the contract to join them together again. The price reported to have been quoted by the firm is $17,000, which is exceptionally low, including as it does the towage of the two halves and insurance on the tow. British ship repairers who tendered in competition with the Rotterdam firm, were amazed at the lowness of the prices quoted, which, they generally agree, would not cover labor and material in Great Britain.

The opinion is expressed that the repairing firm may easily find themselves involved in a heavy loss on the job, particularly if there is any twist in the hull, which has to be rectified under the terms of the contract.

Canned Salmon Pack Now Exceeds Figure for Last Year

VANCOUVER, Aug. 11 (CP).—British Columbia's 1932 canned salmon pack is now in excess of the total for the corresponding period of 1931. Latest available figures are 422,493 cases, compared with 382,604 at this time last year, according to an official summary from Major J. A. Motherwell, chief supervisor of fisheries.

Greatest increases are noted in spring, cohoes and chums. The sockeye is the heaviest of all varieties with 203,671 cases, but this figure is 27,715 below last year.

In addition to sockeye, the current season pack is made up as follows: Spring, 48,622; steelhead, 507; blueback, 20,130; coho, 33,614; pinks, 74,025; and chums, 41,924.

The Nurturion had been docked on a wharf, and a Dutch firm had been lined up, halves erected, photographs taken, test pieces cut out of the hull, and so on. A reasonable estimate of the combined costs of the action is $40,000.

CANADA GETS FIFTH PLACE

Monotype Yacht Race Won by Holland Entry With Eighty-Seven Points

By ELMER DULMAOE (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11 (AP).—Finding competition a bit sterner and his ups and downs of fortune swinging strictly to the downside of today's two contests, Reginald Dixon, of Felsborough, Ont., found himself in fifth place in the final tabulation of the Olympic monotype yacht series tonight.

Leading competitors as the eleventh and final race was completed were Jan Maas, of Holland, who took the monotype championship with 87 points. In second place was France, third was Spain, and then came Germany and Canada, with Great Britain in sixth place.

Dixon, sailing under Toronto colors, placed sixth in the tenth race, and was the first of today's programme. In the eleventh, sailed this afternoon, he was fourth.

Charles Lyons, sailing the United States entry, won the first of the two races, and the Italian boat placed first in the second clip around the two-mile course.

In fourth place, at the end of yesterday's races, Dixon slipped back a notch through results of today's battles.

Gilbert Gray, of New Orleans, who clinched the star class championship the day previous, came through in the final race today with a win. The Windsor, sailed by H. E. Wylie, of Vancouver, was tied for third with the Swedish star of Sweden, Jay and his English boat were in second place.

Big Drop in Total Of Private Radio Licences Renewed

Free radio licences issued to the blind throughout Canada totalled 981 for the first two months of the 1932-33 fiscal year ending May 31, while for the previous fiscal year the figures were 873, according to a statement released yesterday by E. J. Hargrave, divisional superintendent of the Department of Marine Radio Branch.

For the same two months the total of private radio licences issued throughout the country was 164,042, as against 588,358 issued in the year 1931-32.

British Columbia total for the months of April and May was 11,556, as against 55,534 for the 1931-32 period. Issues in the province averaged 2,201, as against 1,672 for 1931-32.

DIVER SEEKING COAL CARGO LOST NEARLY SIXTY YEARS SINCE

SEATTLE, Aug. 11.—In an endeavor to find and raise 500 tons of coal, which have been at the bottom of the sea for nearly sixty years, W. S. Benjamin, well-known deep-sea diver, left here on Tuesday. The cargo of fuel was lost in the year 1875 with the sinking of the bark Union, near the entrance of Rosario Strait.

Mr. Benjamin's father, who was also a renowned diver, was bringing the sunken craft to the surface years ago, but his plans failed to mature and his death left the son to carry on the work. The present salvage attempt will be not only a mercenary matter, but also one of family pride.

The submarine vessel was bound from Comox to San Francisco when the mishap occurred which has kept her on the bottom of the sea for over half a century.

Cheminous Shipping

CHEMINOUS, August 11.—Shipping entering the port of Cheminous for the week ending August 9 included Ms. LaRaine, Captain S. Carlson, for Port Townsend; Se. Cape Scott, Captain H. S. McEllan, for Port Angeles; Barge Betsy Ross, Captain F. E. Cowan, for Port Angeles; and Ms. Nanaville, Captain H. Wergeland, for San Francisco.

Local shipping included C.N. Tug 1, Captain J. G. Kinney, for Port Mann; C.N. Barge No. 108, Captain J. Thompson, for Port Mann; Ms. T. H. L. Captain R. Daykin, for Ganage; C.N. Tug No. 1, Captain J. Goodwin, for Howe Sound; Island Comet, Captain J. Barlow, for Vancouver; and Elita Mac, Captain A. Warren, for Victoria.

Sir David Wilkie was the principal genre painter of the Scottish school.

Josiah Wedgwood was the most celebrated of English potters.

TOTAL OF TONNAGE ENTERING SHANGHAI UP FOR YEAR 1931

Notwithstanding that the year 1931 was one of financial depression, the most depressing perhaps in the commercial history of Shanghai, and that Communist-bandit activities in Central China, the slump of silver, and the wide fluctuations in exchange rates, made trade precarious, the shipping entrances and clearances under general regulations in Shanghai aggregated approximately 38,000,000 tons, showing an increase on 3,000,000, according to information arriving here this week from the Orient.

Entrances under these regulations amounted to 10,000,000 tons, and entrances under the Interland Water Regulations, consisting of a large extent of ocean-going steamers plying on the coast, amounted to two million tons, so that the total tonnage entering the harbor during the year 1931 was 21,000,000 tons, which figure places Shanghai on an equal footing with Osaka as seventh on the list of the great ports of the world in point of tonnage.

Victoria Bowlers Take Team Match From Mainlanders

A. B. McNeill Leads Side to Victory in Important Fixture—Visiting Women Capture Tolmie Cup—Men's Rink Final Reached

In a most exciting, as well as very close competition, bowlers of Victoria and district triumphed over the visitors by the very small margin of twelve points. The trophy at stake was the Kelly-Douglas Cup, and both sides had out their best men. A. B. McNeill, president of the district association, captained the city side, while W. Seaton, of Vancouver, headed the visitors. Fifteen rinks on either side took part, and not more than a few points separated the two sides at any time. The Victoria men were defending the trophy, they having won the competition last year.

The whole day was devoted to play in the doubles and rinks competitions. In the latter, E. G. Sherwood succeeded in getting into the final. This is the fourth time in four years that Sherwood has reached the final in this contest. On two previous occasions he won first place, while in one he had to be content with second.

In the women's competition for the Tolmie Cup, played between Victoria women and their visiting friends, the visitors won out by 163 to 116, giving them a margin of 47.

Yesterday, the finals were reached in the men's rinks competition and the consolation. In the former, Sherwood, of Victoria, meets Colburn, Vancouver; while in the latter, McCosh, Victoria, meets W. Penderleith, Vancouver. These games will be played tomorrow morning.

This morning, at 9 o'clock, the mixed rinks competition will be staged at Beacon Hill and Crystal Garden, and during the afternoon play will continue in those competitions which have been staged since the commencement of the tournament.

Following are the rinks and scores in the Kelly-Douglas Cup competition.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON
Robert Eckthorp's "Birthdays" Life—Robert Eckthorp, son of an American mining engineer, lived to be more than ninety, but never enjoyed the celebration of a birthday anniversary. Born on February 29, 1896, he missed his birthday in 1900 because it was a leap year. In 1904 he missed it again when his family left Russia for England on February 24, thirteen days before the change from Gregorian to Julian calendars. When he should have had a birthday in 1908 he was sailing westward across the Pacific and lost February 29 while crossing the International Date Line. His chance in 1912 disappeared as in 1904, this time while his father was taking him from Greece to France, again losing thirteen days and his birthday in the change of calendars. Robert died in London, August 28, 1915—prior to the recurrence of another leap year.

Grimm's Crew Takes 3-2 Decision From Pittsburgh to Jump Into Top Berth—Phillies Win —Wes Ferrell Wins 19th Game of Year

NATIONAL LEAGUE
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—Floyd Vaughan, young Pirate shortstop, "cracked" at a crucial moment in the tenth inning today, and the result was a 3 to 2 victory for Chicago Cubs that dropped the Pirates out of the National League lead for the first time since June 26. With one out in the tenth and the score tied at 2-2, Vaughan made a low throw to first on Kiki Cuyler's grounder, and the runner was safe. Riggs Stephenson advanced him to third with a single, and Moore's fly sent home the winning run. H. E. Chicago 3 11 0 Pittsburgh 2 8 1

PHILS BEAT BRAVES

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—After six successive defeats, the Phillies came out of their slump today to down Boston, 7-2, a four-run attack off Bob Brown in the first inning paying the way for an easy triumph for Ray Benney. Virgil Davis led the attack with three hits which drove in four runs. Benney limited the Braves to nine scattered hits.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Walter Stewart's able relief pitching today helped St. Louis Browns to a 6 to 5 victory over Chicago White Sox in the opening of the series. Stewart gave only two hits during the last four innings, after Sam Gray, Charlie Fletcher and Ray Benney had failed. Ted Lyons was clipped for five runs in the fifth, and was replaced in the sixth when the Browns scored the winning run, assisted by Luke Appling's fumble of a double-play ball.

FERRELL WINS AGAIN

FERRELL, Aug. 11.—Wesley Ferrell pitched himself into a tie with Lefty Gomez, of the Yankees, for the most games won this season by shutting out Detroit while the Tigers were out of the game. The victory was Ferrell's nineteenth in twenty games in which he first won four games, and placed him within one game of being the first major league hurler ever to win twenty games in each of his first four seasons.

Coast Boy's Putter Fails in Quarter-Final Match Against Gordon Taylor—Ross Somerville, Will Gunn and Jack Cameron Advance to Semis in Dominion Tournament

LAMBTON GOLF CLUB, TORONTO, Aug. 11 (CP).—Defending Champion C. R. "Sandy" Somerville, who has won four linksmen who abused par with abandon today marched into the semi-final round of the Canadian amateur golf title Derby.

Somerville, who has won four linksmen who abused par with abandon today marched into the semi-final round of the Canadian amateur golf title Derby. He is Will Gunn, Jr., of Wallingford, Pa., a youth in his early twenties, who comes of a golfing family that produced the once-great Walter Gunn, now retired. The other holders of semi-final positions are Jack Cameron, of Ottawa, and Ross Somerville, a journey figure for many years, and husky Gordon Taylor, Montrealer, long fighting along the tournament trail but never on the major pinnacles.

Ryan's courageous effort to tack defeat on Somerville was the central drama of today's play. His near-perfect shooting kept him in front of the defender over the long route they traveled, but in the pinches the iron nerve of Sandy had its say and the champion ended the tilt on the thirty-fourth green, 3 up.

After fourteen holes of the morning round the Detroit stylist had his opponent 2 down. His shots then began wavering and Somerville took three straight holes and went to lunch 1 up.

The afternoon was young when the American again forged into the lead, but seven holes from the finish Ryan overshot the green on a 130 yarder. He had made sensational recoveries all day, but he dubbed the one and Sandy squared the match.

STEADY GOLF WINS

First day move of the afternoon, it ruffled Ryan and Canada's first-ranking journey man horse maintained his steady gallop to take three of the next four holes and victory.

Will Gunn's latest step along the championship trail was also by the thin margin of 3 and 2, registered over Jack Nash, of London, who tossed a short spasm of birdies at his foe to trudge out of the shadow of a bad beating. The other games were decided by goodly margins. Cameron came out of a morning slump into a par-rocking display to eliminate Bill Eckhardt, Toronto youth, by 6 and 4, while Taylor dropped Stan Leonard, Vancouver seventeen-year-old wearer of the British Columbia amateur crown, from the picture by a 7 and 6 count. Leonard's magic putting touch of the previous day, when he had eleven one-stroke greens, left him, and he tripped over Taylor's long string of pars.

LOSERS PUTTING TOUCH

Young Leonard seemed on top of his game when he steamed out the first nine in 35, one over par, and had Gordon Taylor a hole down despite seven fours by the latter. After the turn wobbly putts gave the British Columbia boy five holes he too had been collecting fours, and he was 3 down at the end of the round.

Stan's putter dropped one of twenty-five feet on the second hole of the afternoon and then went haywire in a hole-in-one at the mercy of a foe who toured the twelve holes required in the afternoon in exactly par.

VANCOUVER VETERAN REACHES SENIORS' GOLF FINAL

COL. J. P. FELL AND JOSHUA GREEN WILL MEET FOR LAURELS

Mainlander Defeats J. A. Byerly, Portland, 5 and 3, to March Into Last Bracket—Seattle Player Eliminates J. H. Fuller, Aberdeen, at 19th—Victoria Well Represented in Finals

Two fine veterans, Colonel J. P. Fell, Vancouver, and Joshua Green, Seattle, will fight it out this morning over the eighteen-hole route for the grand championship of the seniors' Northwest Golf Association at the Royal Colwood Club as a result of yesterday's matches in the semi-finals. The winner will take possession of the Barnard Cup, symbol of the title, for the ensuing twelve months. The Vancouver veteran continued his steady golf and marched into the final by a 5 and 3 decision over J. A. Byerly, Portland, 1930 titleholder, while Joshua Green eliminated J. H. Fuller, Aberdeen, lone entrant, after a close battle at the nineteenth hole.

Chances of history repeating itself were swept aside when Fell and Green came through. Two years ago the two defeated golfers in the semi-finals. Byerly and Fuller fought it out on the same course for the championship, with the Rose City expert winning out on the seventeenth, 2 and 1.

Victoria is represented in all the finals except the grand championship. Following the finals today, the annual international and All-Canada vs. All-United States matches will take place. This evening, at the Union Club, the veterans will hold their grand finale in the form of a banquet and presentation of the Barnard Cup to the champion.

CLOSE BATTLE
The Green-Fuller match was close all the way. Playing close to par, the pair reached the halfway mark all square. Green was one down at the third and was still trailing by the same margin until the eighth, which he won to even matters. Fuller jumped into the lead again by winning the thirteenth. Green came right back and won the long fourteenth to even the match. The pair played the next four holes and then started for the nineteenth, when Green captured by sinking a ten-footer for a par four.

Colonel Fell started off brilliantly against Byerly and won the first hole. The second was halved and the Mainlander increased his lead by winning the tricky third. Byerly reached the green at the short fourth and won the hole with a par to be one down. Fell stepped out and uncorked a steady brand of shots to hold a four-up margin at the turn. He continued his fine display on the incoming route and ended the match at the fifteenth with a par 3 to win, 5 and 3.

For the second day in succession, B. S. Heisterman appeared in maroon and white, the final in the semi-finals of the "D" championship. T. S. McPherson also reached the final in the same class by defeating the nineteenth to win from A. D. Katz, Portland, at 19th.

MONTREAL BOY TAKES LACING

Johnny Keller Badly Beaten by German Fighter in Olympic Boxing Tourney

OLYMPIC AUDITORIUM, LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11 (CP).—The Canadian boxing force was shaved down to two men at the Olympic Games tournament tonight, when Johnny Keller, fiery featherweight from Montreal, took a terrible beating from Josef Schlenker, of Germany, tall veteran with a mighty left hook.

Lefty Gwynne, Toronto bantam, and big George Maughan, heavyweight from McGill University, are the only Canadians retaining chances to capture an Olympic title. Both won their first bouts but were not scheduled to box today. They get into the semi-final tests tomorrow.

Keller, a hard hitter with both hands, had no defence for a cutting left hook that Schlenker threw at random in every round. The experienced Montreal boy scored points in the first with a steady two-fisted attack but he started to falter in the second under the constant battering his German foe handed out. When Schlenker put on steam in the third round, relentlessly pouring gloves into Keller's face, the Canadian wilted and had difficulty in finishing.

HUNGARY BLANKS U.S. POLO TEAM
OLYMPIC SWIMMING STADIUM, LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11 (AP).—Two clever sharpshooters, Oliver Hassaus and Martin Homann, gave Hungary a 7 to 0 victory over the United States in an Olympic water polo game today. Hassaus scored four goals and Homann three.

The loss, the first for the United States, left Hungary with a clean slate. The Japanese and the Germans will meet tomorrow.

Perks, Victoria, was highly praised for his untiring work during the year and was given a hearty vote of thanks by the meeting.

BENNY LEONARD WINS DECISION

Former Lightweight Champion Gets Call Over Paule Walker—Townsend Loses

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP).—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, won his twenty-first straight victory of his comeback campaign tonight by taking a close decision over Paule Walker, of Trenton, N.J., in the ten-round feature bout at Ebbets Field. Leonard scaled 151 pounds, two pounds more than Walker.

Leonard had to stage a comeback to gain the decision over the rugged New Jersey welterweight. He had lost at least four of the first seven rounds and seemed doomed to defeat. A rally in the last three rounds, however, won him the verdict.

Benny easily outboxed his younger rival in the first two rounds and ran into trouble in the third. In this frame Walker connected repeatedly with rights and lefts to Leonard's head. He opened a cut over the bridge of the veteran's nose in the fourth and opened a cut over his left eye in the seventh.

His winning streak endangered, Leonard staged a great rally in the eighth, cuffing Walker about the head and consistently outpunching him. Benny boxed superbly in the ninth and won that round by a wide margin. He clearly earned the edge in the tenth, staggering Walker once with a terrific overhand right to the chin.

Christopher "Bat" Battalino, of Hartford, Conn., former featherweight, defeated Billy Townsend, Vancouver, in the ten-round semi-final put on after the main bout. Battalino scaled 138-1-2 pounds; Townsend 143-1-2.

It was a brilliantly fought duel that had the crowd in an uproar all the way, as first one and then the other rallied under heavy punishment. Bat dropped the Vancouver contender for a count of seven, with a pile-driving right to the chin in the fourth round, but he could not floor him thereafter.

Townsend landed his best punch of the fight in the ninth round, an overhand right that sent Battalino staggering around the ring. Most of the way the bout was a slugfest, with Battalino holding enough of an edge to earn him the verdict.

GAMBLING BY CUBS CHARGED

Several Players Said to Have Bet Heavily on Horse Races

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP).—William L. Veck, president of the Chicago Cubs, today denied knowledge of any gambling activities by members of the National League pennant contenders, or of any investigation or request for an investigation.

"Do you think that if these rumors were true that I would be sitting here in my office?" Veck asked. "I'd be in Pittsburgh, where the team is playing."

The president said that Guy Bush had not been asked to return to Chicago for a conference, as reported in special dispatches from Pittsburgh.

COMMISSIONER SILENT
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11 (AP).—Baseball's high commissioner, K. M. Landis, was today, but whether he came to investigate charges of gambling among the Chicago Cubs, he declined to say. He refused to comment on charges that some Chicago players had bet heavily on horse races while Rogers Hornsby was their manager.

"I'm always investigating something, and while I have nothing to say now, I may speak later today," the commissioner smiled as he arrived to see today's ball game.

Hornsby was ousted as manager of the Chicago Club last week. Charley Grimm, first baseman, was given his post. Grimm said Landis did not discuss the gambling charges when he talked with him today.

Pitcher Guy Bush was named in connection with the charges in dispatches from Chicago today.

"You can say that Pitcher Bush is not guilty of gambling," Grimm said. "Bush's ticket has been bought for St. Louis, and he will accompany the club there tonight to pitch a game of the series. If there were anything to this he would be ordered back to Chicago."

FYVIE TOPS B.C. SHOTS IN MATCH

Puts on 102 in First Stage of Lieutenant-Governor's Shoot

(Special to The Colonist)
CONNAUGHT RANGES, OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—Many good aggregates went by the board today, in the shooting of the first stage of the Governor-General's match, shot at 200, 300 and 600 yards, seven shots at each. Conditions were fairly easy at 200 and 300 yards, with the result that double possibilities were very common, but at 600 yards, in the early afternoon, a terrific storm of wind and rain broke over the range, which completely changed the complexion of matters. All the British Columbia men got caught in the storm.

There were three scores of 104 tied for top place, and thirty-two scores of 96 had to be shot off for the last six places. British Columbia marksmen qualifying for the second stage, are: Captain D. Fyvie, 102; Sergt. B. Drysdale, 101; Pte. L. M. Grant, 100; Sergt. T. W. Hall, 98; Captain D. R. Blair, 98; Sergt. Major W. H. Ruffell, 98; Major F. Richardson, 97; Master-Gunner H. Collings, 97; Q.M.S. A. E. Evans, 97. The final will be shot Saturday.

Four tied for first place with scores of 104, one below possible. Corp. D. O. White, Grand Falls, N.B., finally won the first stage in a tie shoot. Thirty-two others shot off for five places in the second stage.

Included in those eliminated are Mrs. J. N. Dow, Saint John, and Gwen Spencer, Victoria, only women entered. Scores of them lost out in the shoot-off for the final five places.

AUSTRALIAN XI HELD TO DRAW
Touring Cricketers and Calgary All-Stars Draw—Bradman Scores Sixty-Nine, Not Out

CALGARY, Aug. 11 (CP).—Australia's cricket stars left Calgary tonight for the Pacific Coast with one victory and a draw added to their numerous successes garnered during a brilliant tour of Canada. Today the Aussies played a drawn game with Calgary All-Stars, the team they easily defeated yesterday.

Today Australia batted 217 runs for three wickets, declared while Calgary could muster only 60 runs for seven wickets. The bowling delivered to the Calgary players by the Australians was bewildering, and the foothills batters were unable to connect properly. The Calgarians, however, displayed fine fielding.

The Australians went to bat first and declared when three wickets had fallen. Calgary then started batting, but the game went uncompleted when stumps were drawn to allow the visitors time to catch the train for Banff, where they will continue a short period before continuing to the Coast to wind up their Dominion tour in a series of matches.

Unlike yesterday, when rain drenched the players, today's weather was cool and clear and the pitch was perfect. Kippax and Bradman led the Aussie batting. Kippax knocked up 77 before outing before wicket, and Bradman scored 69, not out. The noted Bradman connected easily with the Calgary bowling and at no time was in danger.

Small Net Loss Taken by Stocks At Wall Street

NEW YORK, Aug. 11. — A flat wheat market helped apply the brakes to stocks' advance today, and closing share prices averaged lower for the second time this week.

Heavy profit taking swarmed over the list at frequent intervals, particularly in the last hour, although previously bull had been able to maintain enthusiasm with demonstrations in rails and farm implements issues.

The average net loss was trifling, a few leaders losing a point or so on the day. Volume remained high, totaling 4,402,410 shares.

As it be, the market was about 1 to 4 points at its worst. There was roughly the same range of decline. Between times, prices churned about erratically, although a tendency toward business was slightly more in evidence.

"Eight-cent cotton" appeared to hold less interest for stock market operators than the sag in wheat. Grain traders found the Government's crop estimate bearish; at least, this was true for those who had been predicting a much larger decrease than actually appeared.

Such leading stocks as American Telephone, U.S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Borden, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas closed lower, but International Harvester and J. I. Case, although under their highs, showed more than a point to the good. Johns-Manville was strong, up 3 1/2. Preferred stocks were generally strong. The market proved, especially those stocks which have an interest in silver.

Farm implement shares got a lift from reports of possible Russian purchases of United States goods, to be financed, according to the purported plan, by Soviet bond issues.

WHEAT PRICES LEADING STOCKS AT EASTERN EXCHANGES CONTINUE TO GAIN

Weakness at Outside Markets Causes Reaction at Winnipeg Pit

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11 (CP). — Wheat continued its see-saw movement on the grain exchange here today and weakness at Chicago due to Government crop reports Wednesday and lower cables from Liverpool were responsible for losses of nearly a cent recorded at the close.

There was a lull in the morning and May closed at 67 1/2, down 1/2. While long took profits, offerings increased and most of the previous day's advance was wiped out. Export business was reported to have formed part of some early support but the aggregate of foreign much impression and added to the Liverpool intimated milling interest was small.

The Canadian crop report indicated an increase of nearly 1,000,000 acres in the seeded wheat area and this was taken to offset the poorer condition of the crop. A larger anticipated wheat crop than the estimates of the United States Government. No wheat was shipped from Russia this week.

With the heavy volume of the past week continuing, prices of active grain marked up gains ranging from fractions to 1 point on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today.

National Silver was the feature in point of trading interest. Stocks gained a point including Big Minerals at 14, Grandview at 5 and Reno Gold at 45. Beaver Silver at 51 1/2 was up 1 1/2, while Reno Gold at 45 was up 1/2. Silver at 21 1/4 gained 1/4. International Nickel at 9.00 was firm. Royalite, in the oils, advanced 1/4 to 61 1/4.

WHEAT PRICES LEADING STOCKS AT EASTERN EXCHANGES CONTINUE TO GAIN

Weakness at Outside Markets Causes Reaction at Winnipeg Pit

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11 (CP). — Wheat continued its see-saw movement on the grain exchange here today and weakness at Chicago due to Government crop reports Wednesday and lower cables from Liverpool were responsible for losses of nearly a cent recorded at the close.

There was a lull in the morning and May closed at 67 1/2, down 1/2. While long took profits, offerings increased and most of the previous day's advance was wiped out. Export business was reported to have formed part of some early support but the aggregate of foreign much impression and added to the Liverpool intimated milling interest was small.

The Canadian crop report indicated an increase of nearly 1,000,000 acres in the seeded wheat area and this was taken to offset the poorer condition of the crop. A larger anticipated wheat crop than the estimates of the United States Government. No wheat was shipped from Russia this week.

With the heavy volume of the past week continuing, prices of active grain marked up gains ranging from fractions to 1 point on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today.

National Silver was the feature in point of trading interest. Stocks gained a point including Big Minerals at 14, Grandview at 5 and Reno Gold at 45. Beaver Silver at 51 1/2 was up 1 1/2, while Reno Gold at 45 was up 1/2. Silver at 21 1/4 gained 1/4. International Nickel at 9.00 was firm. Royalite, in the oils, advanced 1/4 to 61 1/4.

THE LUCKY LAWRENCES

By KATHLEEN MORRIS

CHAPTER VII

Gail's thoughts had time to go to Van Murchison at intervals during that day and the next day. She began the girl's calendar. "It's only one full day since I saw him—it's only two full days—only the morning of the third day."

And it began to seem like a dream to her.

Edith asked, delicately, lightly, if there had been any friendly visiting or telephoning.

And then, on Thursday night, "Oh, yes," Van Murchison was in. It seems Mrs. Chipp was having a house party down at their place in the Santa Cruz mountains a week from this week-end, and she wants me to go!

"What?" Edith ejaculated, incredulous.

"Oh, yes," Gail was trimming asparagus, trying it in little fagots. "They have a big place down there—cabins, he said, and a swimming pool. We go down Friday and get back Sunday afternoon."

"Oh, Gail, aren't you excited?"

Gail laughed a little protestingly. "Yes, I am," she admitted honestly. "I'm excited! But, of course, they only want me because Van does," Gail suggested, suddenly sober. "He probably asked his aunt to ask me!"

"Oh, for heaven's sake!" Ariel said impatiently and unexpectedly in her husky tones from her place in the kitchen rocker, where she was supposedly studying "Our Neighbors, the Americas."

"What would you want her to ask you for—because Mama was a church member? You know very well you're not an intimate friend of hers. Why should she ask you?"

"Really, Ariel, you're terrible!" Gail said. But she and Edith laughed just the same.

"I'd much rather—" Ariel muttered, returning to her book. "I'd much rather go to a place because a boy wanted me than because his mother did!"

And laughing helplessly and a little shocked, Edith and Gail admitted that there was something in this view.

"Did she come in, Gail, or did she write a note?"

An instant's chill. Then Gail said casually, "Neither, my dear. She sent a message by Van."

There was a silence. Edith stood distressed and disappointed in the centre of the kitchen. Ariel looked up, alertly from her book. Gail went on, busily with her cooking.

"Well, she will write!" began Edith on an upward inflection.

"She may!" Gail agreed indifferently.

"Well, you won't think of accepting unless she does write, Gail?" Edith persisted unhappily.

"I can't say that," Gail answered airily. "As I have accepted already!"

"But, Gail—"

"A dear Edith," Gail interrupted in a firm, slightly tone, "we are living in the twentieth century, not in the good old days of Pamela and Evelina."

"Well, I'm very much surprised at you!" Edith said trembling. Dinner was served in a sulphurous silence.

Phil noted at once that something was wrong, and his first question, brought the whole thing down upon him in an avalanche.

Gail was flushed and angry, Edith reasonable and cool. They talked at once and Phil frowned faintly, smiled faintly, as he looked from one face to another.

Gail had championed Gail all her life and she adored him as her unfailing authority. It was therefore like a blow in her face to have him say judiciously over his pipe, "I'm not so sure but what Edith's corner and go down to Dobbin's for right, Gail. You aren't sure that Van Murchison—he's an awfully nice kid, and he's most amusing and all that, and he means well enough—but you aren't sure that this kid ever spoke to his aunt at all. How do you know—"

"Oh, listen, listen!" Gail said, managing a laugh but seething with suppressed anger. "He didn't ask me to go to China! He asked me to go for two nights to Los Gatos—and I'm going! He came into the library and said that his aunt was giving this house party and would like to have me come, and I said I'd be delighted, and that's all there is to it!"

There was a full minute of dead silence during which her angry voice hung in the air. On then Ariel expelled a long sighing breath and Phil shrugged philosophically.

"You're of age," he said briefly.

Phil went out without another glance or word for his favorite sister. When Gail and Ariel chanced to be a minute alone in the kitchen, Ariel seized the opportunity to say eagerly:

"Stick it out, Gail! I feverson felt that Edith does, no one would have any fun at all! We'd all be old maids."

Ariel's sympathy was very sweet. But it did not have the value of Edith's approval. On the contrary, there was something disturbing in his suggestion of a general mutiny against the Lawrence way of doing things.

"I wouldn't do anything that was wrong, Baby."

"As if I didn't know that, Gail!" Ariel heeded. "It's just that they don't understand!" she said.

It was always a wretched state for her to be out of sympathy with Edith's approval. On the contrary, there was something disturbing in his suggestion of a general mutiny against the Lawrence way of doing things.

"I wouldn't do anything that was wrong, Baby."

"As if I didn't know that, Gail!" Ariel heeded. "It's just that they don't understand!" she said.

ice cream. And Phil said—"Oh, that's all right. Go ahead!" Gail said absently. Ariel faded from sight silently, was gone.

Later Dick Stebbins looked in at the kitchen door.

"Peanuts, anybody?"

"Phil's gone," Gail said.

"I'll follow him up," But Dick came in instead and was presently illuminating the dark subject of Sam's taste with the interest of the legal mind.

"Gail's going down to the Chipp place in Los Gatos next week-end," Edith said out of a silence.

"Is that so?" Dick asked, looking up.

"Um-hum," Gail affirmed nodding. She was grateful to Edith for taking it as a matter settled. Dick continued to regard her with an odd, almost contemptuous smile.

"You like all that sort of thing, don't you?" he now asked.

"Well, I don't know that I like it especially. I don't know much about it," Gail answered, slightly nettled. "Never having been on a house party of this sort, I couldn't say I liked it or didn't like it," she went on pointedly.

"Meaning that I don't know what I'm talking about?" Dick asked with a not quite good-natured laugh.

"Well," Gail said, with a shrug which indicated that he was at liberty to put that interpretation upon her words if he would.

"I get a great kick out of you and the higher-ups!" Dick went on, broadly grinning.

"How do you mean higher-ups?" "You take them so darn seriously!" Dick continued. Gail smiled mysteriously, but said nothing. Edith must needs rush in with the

A LIAR SHOULD HAVE A GOOD MEMORY

We have often heard it said that a liar should have a good memory. And with most of us, recollections of the saying date so far back in our lives that we regard it as one of those old-fashioned sayings—Victorian, perhaps!

As a matter of fact, the words—and the thought, which is more important—date from the first century and are Latin in their origin. The author of the saying is the Roman rhetorician, Quintilian, who coined it in his famous "Institutiones Oratoriae."

"Your best friend will deceive you; you will have a severe illness." "Excuse me, do you call this my fortune?" —Grazziano Illustration, Venice.
